7. On 15 and 20 February, source believed all barracks installations to have been occupied to capacity. The installations were 95 percent lighted at nightfall.¹

8. On 15 February, the See Kaserne on the south side of Karl Liebknecht Strasse and on the east side of Feldmann Strasse was heavily occupied. The quarters were 95 percent lighted at nightfall. On 12 February, JS-3 tank No 382 entered the installation via Fehrbelliner Strasse, coming from Franz Kuenstler Strasse. From 27 January until 14 February, about 30 soldiers drilled with 4 x 120-mm mortars on the training grounds on Stoeffiner Weg almost daily.

9. The following officer names (phonetic spelling and all fnu) were determined during the period of observation: Colonel Ballashev returned to the U.S.S.R. and was succeeded by Lieutenant Colonel Mamatsenkov; Lieutenant Colonel Yukov, stationed in the Panzer Kaserne; Captain Chesnakov, belonging to the Kech; Major Sherenki, stationed in Fuerstenberg; and Lieutenant Colonel Shubakov of the Kreis komendatura in Neuruppin.

10. On 16 January, 1 boxcarload of ammunition from Dannenwalde was unloaded at the Altruppin railroad station [REDACTED] Altruppin. On 30 January, 1 JS tank from Wuensdorf was unloaded for [REDACTED] Altruppin.¹

2. Comment. The present and previous observations tend to indicate that the units mentioned were elements of the 9th Gds Tank Div which returned to their military post upon completion of field exercises in the area north of Neuruppin from 12 to 15 February. [REDACTED] In connection with this exercise, large-scale shipments from Neuruppin to Neustrelitz were loaded by units of the division on 15 and 16 February. The columns observed may have been on their way to the railroad station. [REDACTED] The weapons and motor vehicle numbers observed confirm the following units of the divisions until 15 February 1953: the 495th How Bn (US), the 121st (?) AAA Regt, the 74th Gds Recon Bn and the 126th Gds RL Bn.
